Diary Of A Nearly Man by Alan Stutz

£14.95 plus p & p

Dubbed Britain's "least well-known fashion enigma", for thirty years Alan Stutz has kept a daily diary. Now in his first book in almost fifty years the real life, true diaries of Stutz's early years are brought together.

Stutz may not be as well-known as fashion gurus such as Yves Saint Laurent but he has hobnobbed with some of the rich and famous. Read his stories involving Britt Ekland, Kate Bush and the (then) Environment Secretary Michael Heseltine. His encounters with many from the world of rock music including Led Zeppelin's Robert Plant, Status Quo, Deep Purple, The Stray Cats, Kiss, Slade's Don Powell and the legendary Rough Mix are also detailed throughout this incredible tome.

In addition to all this, how many people do you know that have also walked through plate glass doors unscathed, been stopped drunk in possession of a push bike two nights running or invited a girl out on a date to her own birthday party?

All the ups and downs of the Nearly Man are documented in this Monty Python-esque tome. Stutz might not be as famous as Michael Palin, but his diaries guarantee more laughter than a hyena! This is undoubtedly the funniest book he has ever written.

This book will have a particular appeal to music fans as Stutz recalls numerous gigs he attended over the years from the likes of Led Zeppelin, Deep Purple, Rainbow, Rush, AC/DC, Status Quo, Queen, and many more!
